UPDATE -- CALIBER CONSTRUCTION & COVID-19

As we see Orange County moving into the early stages of COVID-19, Phase II, we celebrate the progress we have collectively contributed to. While admittedly there will be some aspects of our day-to-day that will be permanently changed, we welcome this next step! We have done this together!

Classified as an essential business to continue operations, Caliber weathered the storm. We are proud of the flexibility of our team as they readily adapted to new working protocols for safer environments while continuing to meet our high standards of client service. Our business remains strong and safe.

Looking ahead, we expect to take our extensive experience to construct office and industrial spaces that accommodate social distancing and embed the technology that enhances communication. We fully expect an increased demand for outdoor amenities, including those we have already helped many of you bring into your environment.

In the near term, we look forward to and have adequate capacity to serve you and the many of you who were forced to put projects on-hold and are ready to move forward.

While we pass through this challenging time, we at Caliber continue to exercise the optimism and dedication that has guided us for over 28 years. We have every confidence that a robust market will re-emerge and we look forward to doing our part to see our team members and clients get there. The Caliber team is ready!

Let's talk about how we can serve you.

Thank you for your trust and partnership.

Doug Bassett, President & Co-Owner

Jim Roy, Vice President & Co-Owner

We anticipate that the new normal will include demand for changes in office and industrial spaces such as:

- Interior spaces constructed to allow for social distancing
- Increased use of technology to enhance communication
- Construction of additional outdoor amenities to take advantage of open-air environments
